

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A portable storage device and its method to display remaining storage capacity, its method includes the portable storage device receives data from the computer, stores data in the data storage module of the portable storage device, and retrieves the remaining data storage capacity of the portable storage device from the computer, and stores the remaining data storage capacity in the remaining data storage capacity module in the portable storage device. After receiving the display remaining storage capacity signal, access the remaining data storage capacity form the remaining data storage capacity module and displays the remaining data storage capacity using the display module of the portable storage device.